

Rotunda Vendor Onboarding Packet

Procurement starting point for public agencies

Purpose

This packet gives procurement, security, accessibility, and legal reviewers a concise starting point for evaluating Rotunda, a government accessibility compliance platform for public-facing websites.

Product scope

Rotunda continuously monitors public-facing pages against WCAG 2.1 AA, turns findings into plain-language remediation drafts, routes decisions to the right staff, and keeps an audit-ready record of review and publication.

Security review

We can respond to your security questionnaire with details on application architecture, access controls, data handling, retention, incident response, hosting, and subprocessors. Send the questionnaire with your inquiry so we can return the right evidence for your review.

Data and access

Rotunda is designed around least-privilege access, role separation, and an explicit record of who approved and shipped a change. The platform does not independently determine legal compliance and does not silently modify customer content.

Contracting and assurance

Materials available during your agency review

Contract paperwork

We can work through your standard vendor agreement, statement of work, insurance requirements, security addendum, and accessibility requirements. BAA and related data-processing paperwork can be reviewed when required by the agency use case.

Accessibility conformance

Our workflow is built to support WCAG 2.1 AA and ADA Title II readiness work: continuous monitoring, criterion-level findings, human expert review before a fix ships, and documentation of the decision history.

References and deliverables

References, implementation examples, a representative report, and VPAT-shaped procurement documentation are available as part of the procurement conversation and can be matched to your agency and portfolio.

Implementation handoff

A typical kickoff covers the monitored site list, agency roles, review workflow, notification routing, reporting expectations, and the evidence your team needs to keep the program moving after launch.
